

It is?

Keizou
Itsuki

This time, his character is exemplified for the first time in a long while.

Whiskey (It's classified differently depending on the area it's produced.)

Name	Characteristics
Scotch (Scotland)	Peat is used to add scents to the malt. There are further regional characteristics in Scotland.
Irish (Ireland)	It uses charcoal carbonized from peat. It's distilled three times in a pot still.
Bourbon (Kentucky, US)	The above two mainly use malted barley, but this uses rye and corn. The barrel also adds characteristics.
Tennessee (Tennessee, US)	It's not that different from bourbon, but it has a particular filtration method.
Canadian	It's mainly made from rye. It's aged for over three years.
Japanese	It uses Scotch's production method.

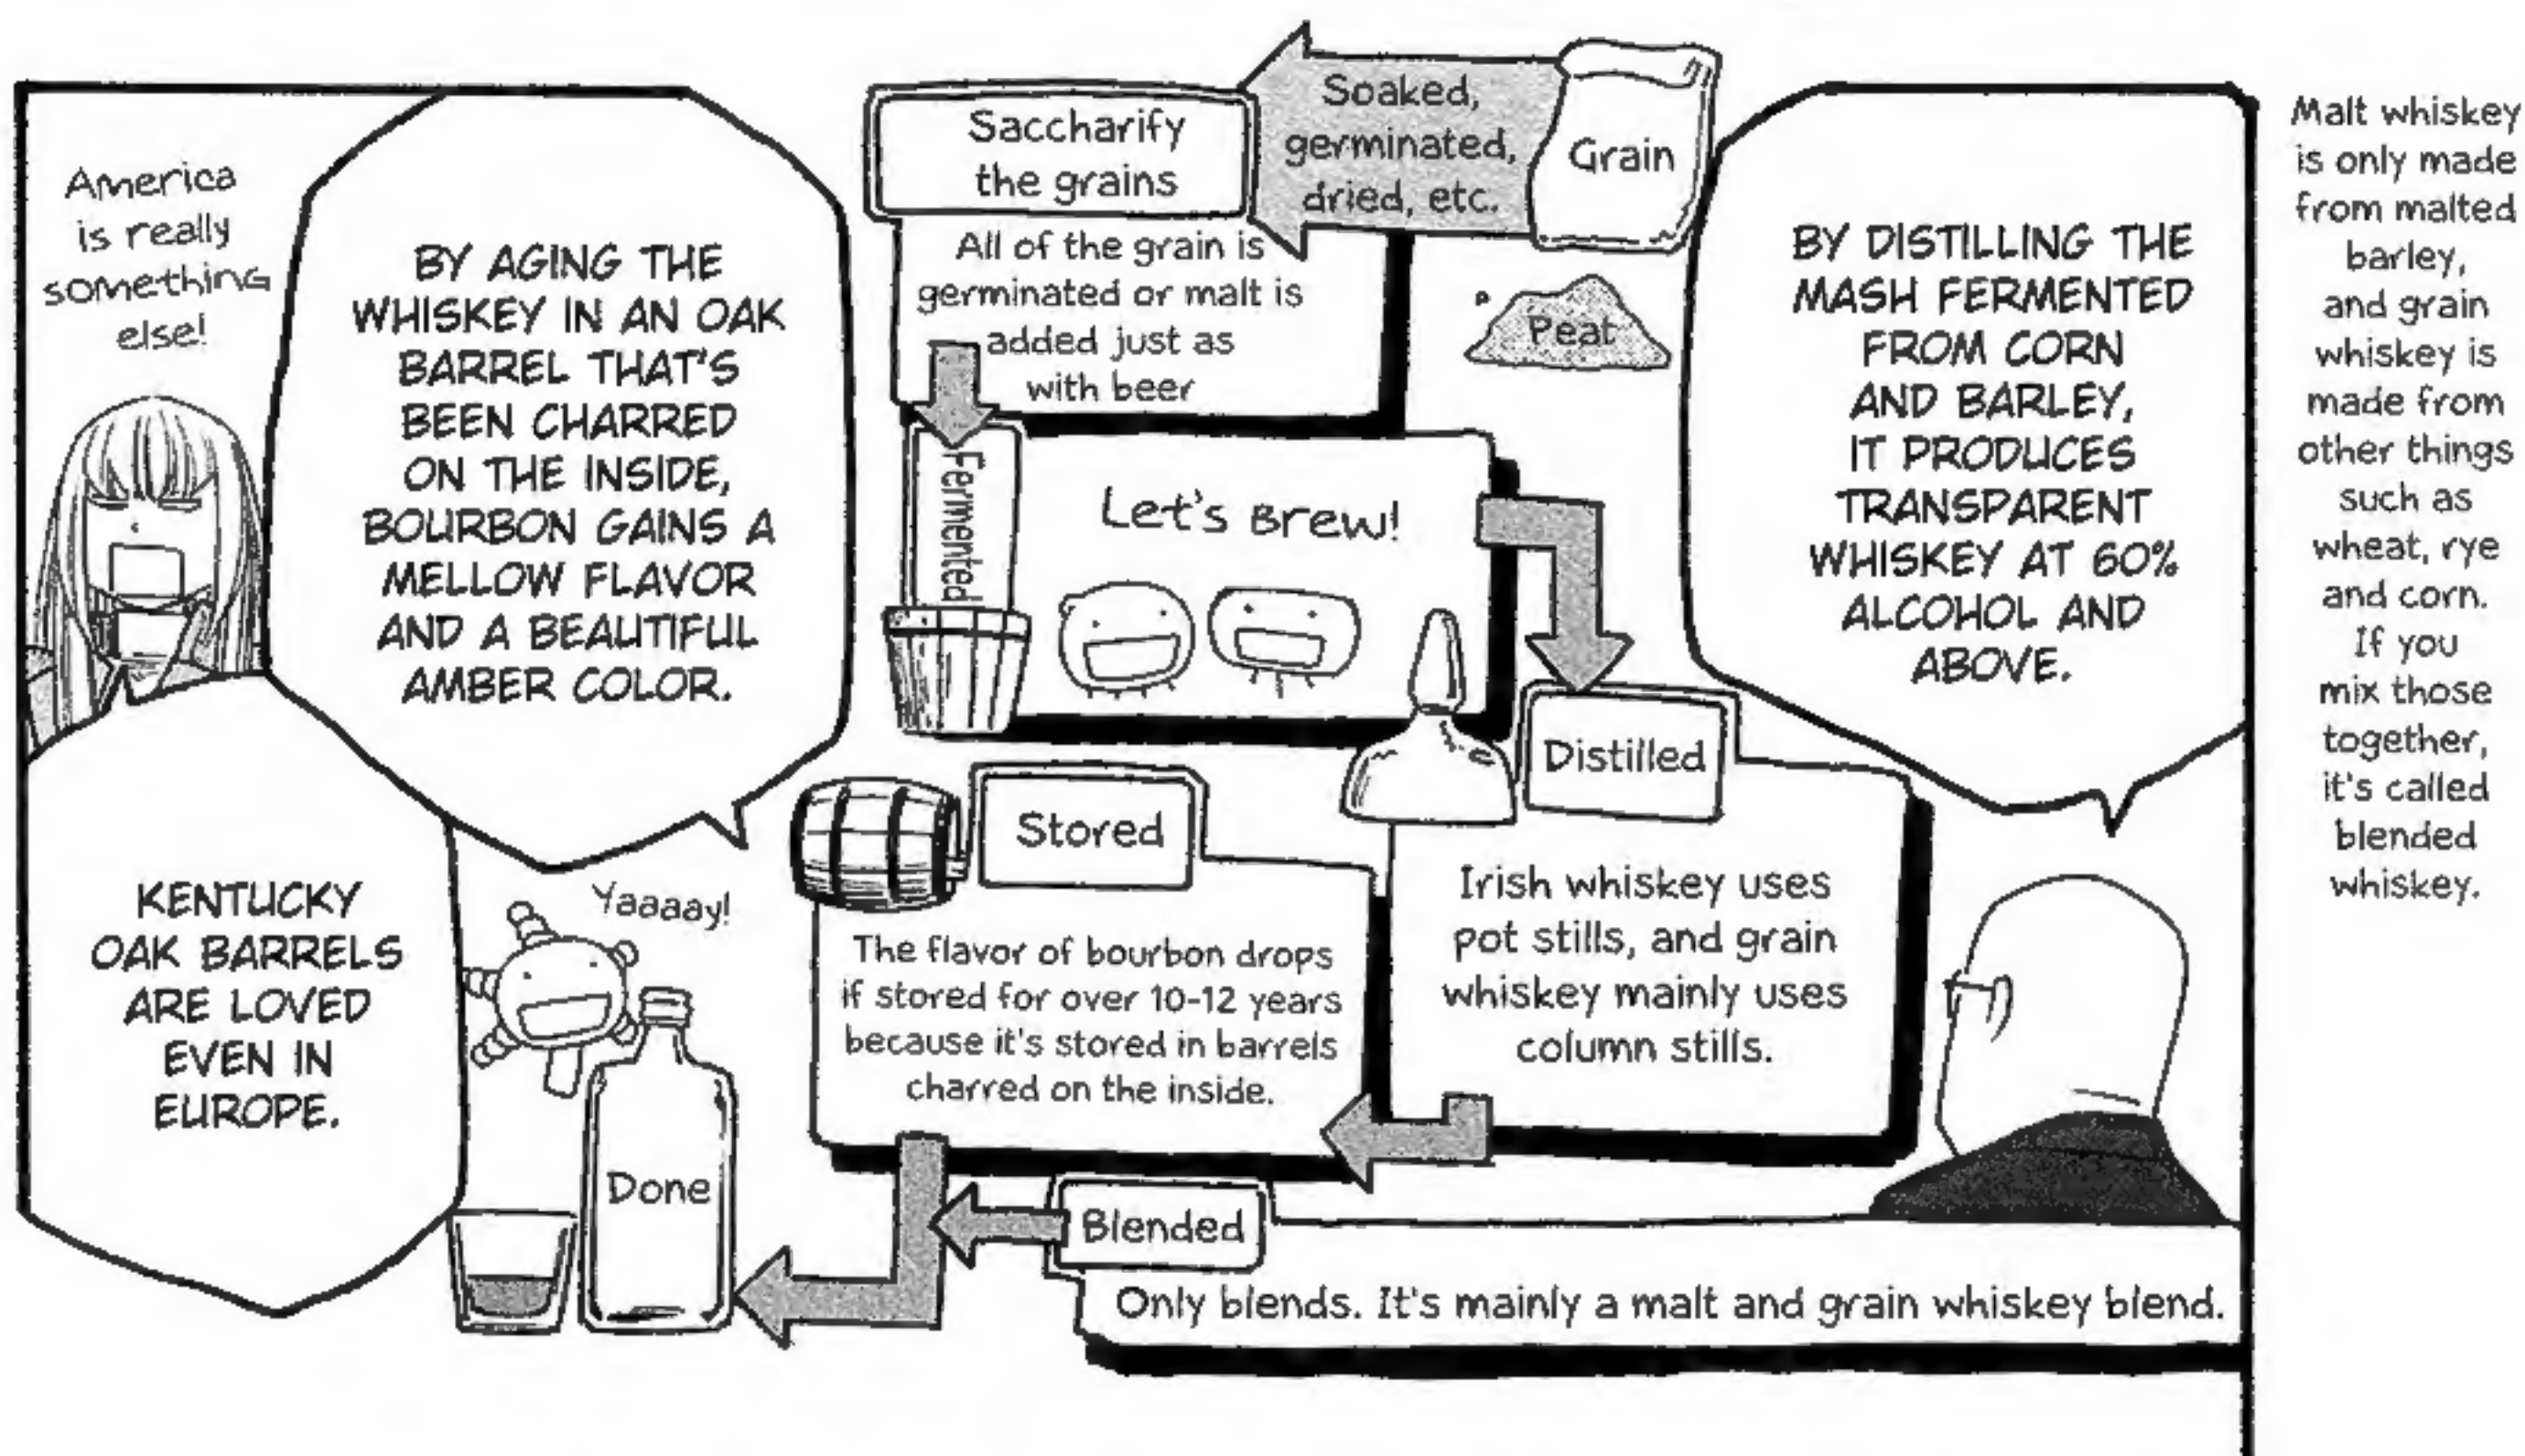

WHISKEY CAN BE FURTHER SUBDIVIDED BASED ON THE DIFFERENCES IN THE INGREDIENTS AND PRODUCTION PROCESSES DEPENDING ON THE REGION, BUT IN SHORT, IT'S BASICALLY DISTILLED LIQUOR MADE FROM GRAINS.

VARIOUS TYPES STARTED POPPING UP SUCH AS SCOTCH, BOURBON AND IRISH WHISKEY, BUT THOSE ARE ALL CLASSIFIED AS "WHISKEY".

Whisky
Scotch style Whiskey
Irish style

Just so you know, Tennessee is closer to New Orleans than Kentucky.

It is?

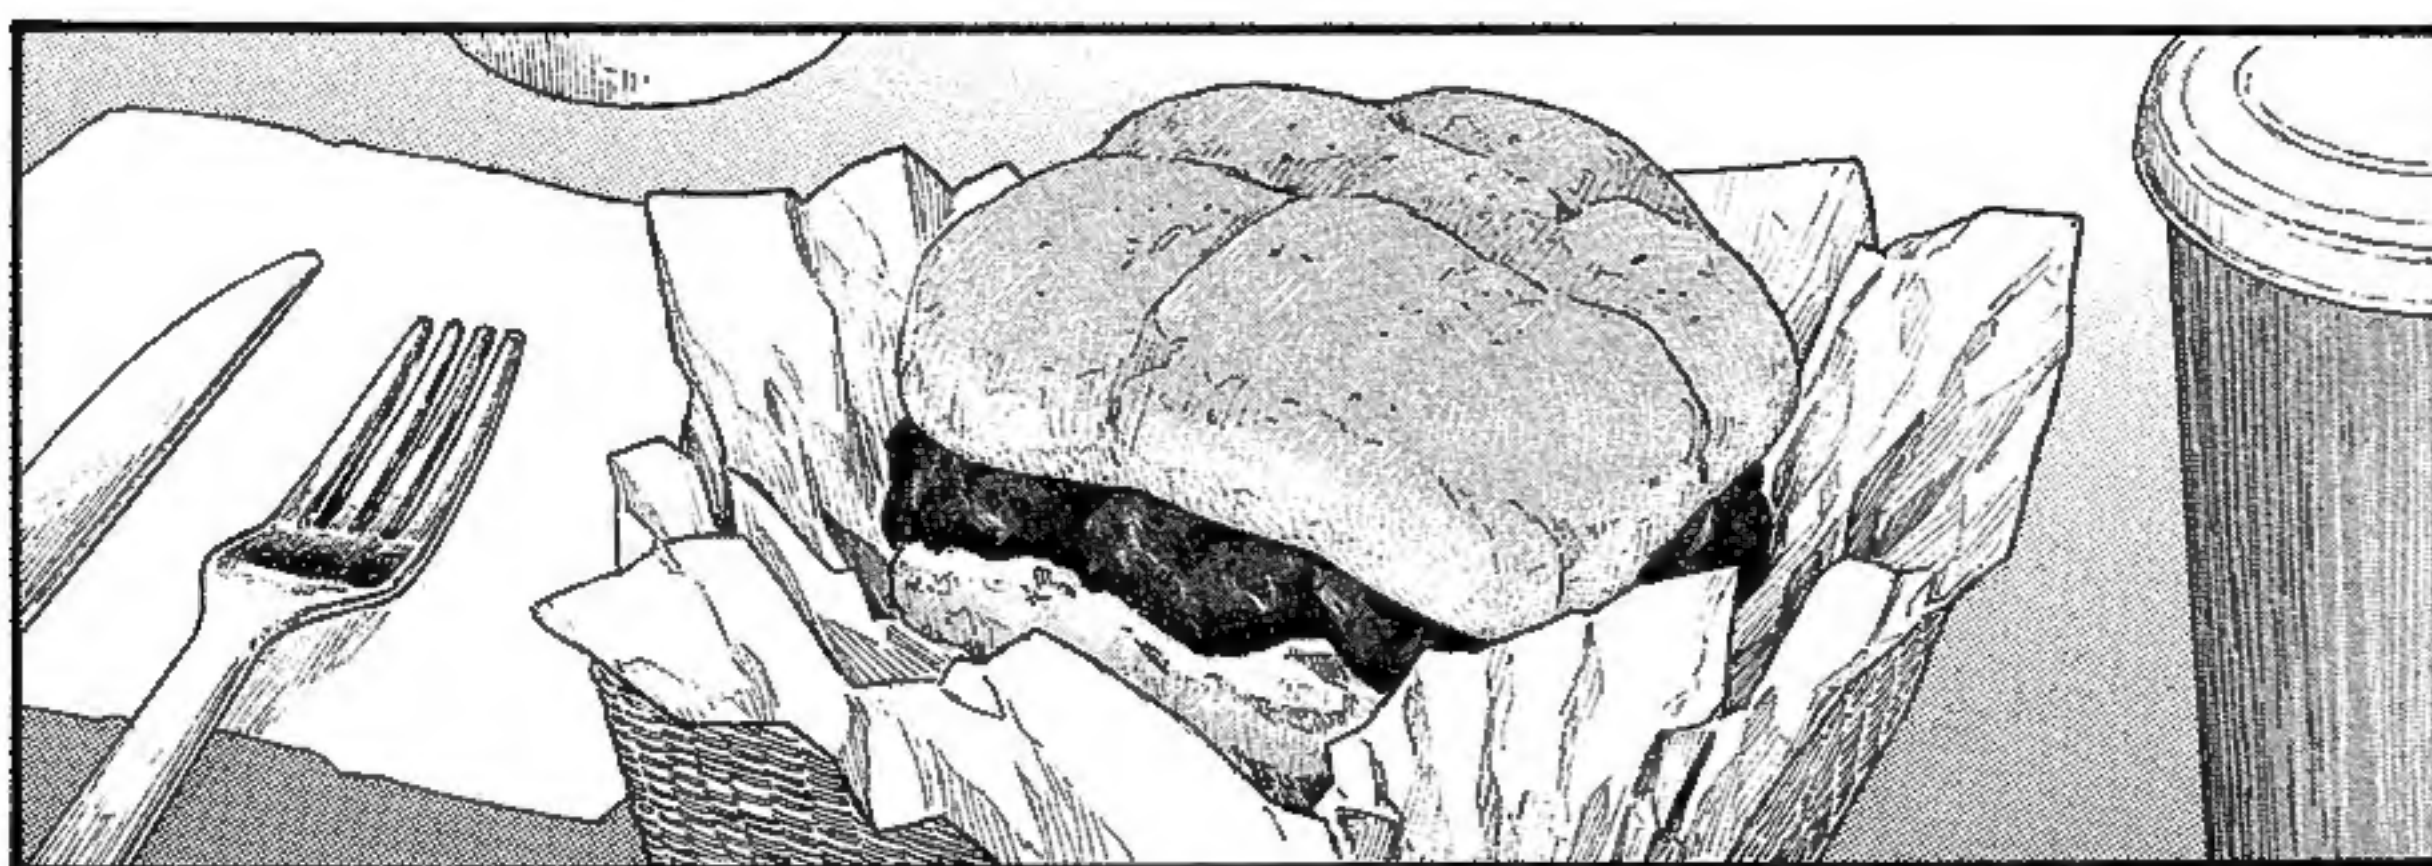

CH. 119: TO NEW ORLEANS

Ohhhh!

THIS MAY BE SUDDEN, BUT THIS TRIP HAS NOW TURNED FROM BEING A PERSONAL TRIP TO BEING USED TO GATHER RESEARCH.

I DON'T HAVE THE FUNDS FOR A PRIVATE JET, BUT I'LL BE WRITING OFF THE HOTEL FEES AND OTHER THINGS AS EXPENSES, SO YOU
DON'T HAVE TO WORRY ABOUT STUFF LIKE THAT ANYMORE.

Tadayasu
Sawaki

Anyone in the real world who started college at the same time as him has already gotten a job and made their way into society.

I DON'T HAVE ANYTHING BAD TO SAY ABOUT IT.

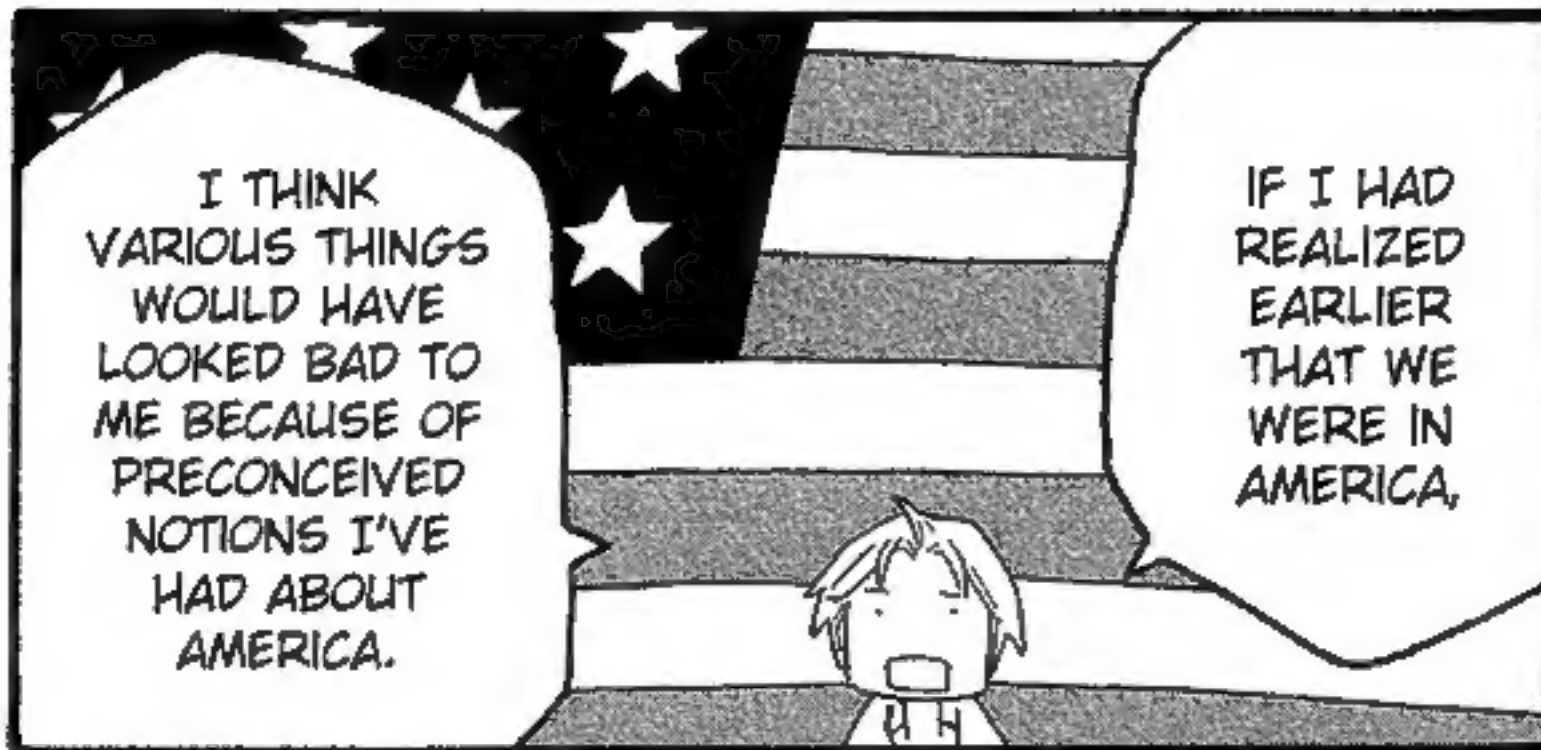

WELL...

Kaoru Misato

This is just my impression, but it feels like Kansai is more similar to America than Kanto.

I THINK VARIOUS THINGS WOULD HAVE LOOKED BAD TO ME BECAUSE OF PRECONCEIVED NOTIONS I'VE HAD ABOUT AMERICA.

IF I HAD REALIZED EARLIER THAT WE WERE IN AMERICA,

Takuma Kawahama

While spending time here, Jose and Carlos are steadily getting closer to them.

SO I THOUGHT I'D BE COMPLAINING ABOUT THE FOOD LEFT AND RIGHT.

I didn't know we were in America, either.

At first,

YEAH, I'VE OFTEN HEARD THAT AMERICA HAS BAD FOOD,

HUH?

THE THING IS... I DIDN'T KNOW WE WERE IN AMERICA AT FIRST.

HOW ABOUT YOU, YUUKI-KUN?

I SEE.

Yeah.

YEAH, BUT THE FOOD HERE HAS BASICALLY BEEN GOOD.

WE MAINLY ATE FAST FOOD, BUT EVEN FOR THE PLACES WHERE WE STOPPED TO EAT, ONLY A FEW OF THEM WERE WORTHWHILE.

IT WAS HELL.

So I fully enjoyed that Japanese food yesterday.

WE WENT THROUGH A DESERT DURING THE FIRST HALF OF THE TRIP, BUT THAT REGION IS WELL-KNOWN FOR THEIR PISTACHIOS,

SO WHEN IT CAME TO FOOD, AT ANY RATE, IT WAS PRETTY HARD TO GET THROUGH.

REALLY?

THOSE WERE DAYS SPENT EATING HUGE, STRONGLY-FLAVORED HAMBURGERS COVERED IN JUICE.

Haruka Hasegawa
She seems pretty used to going overseas.

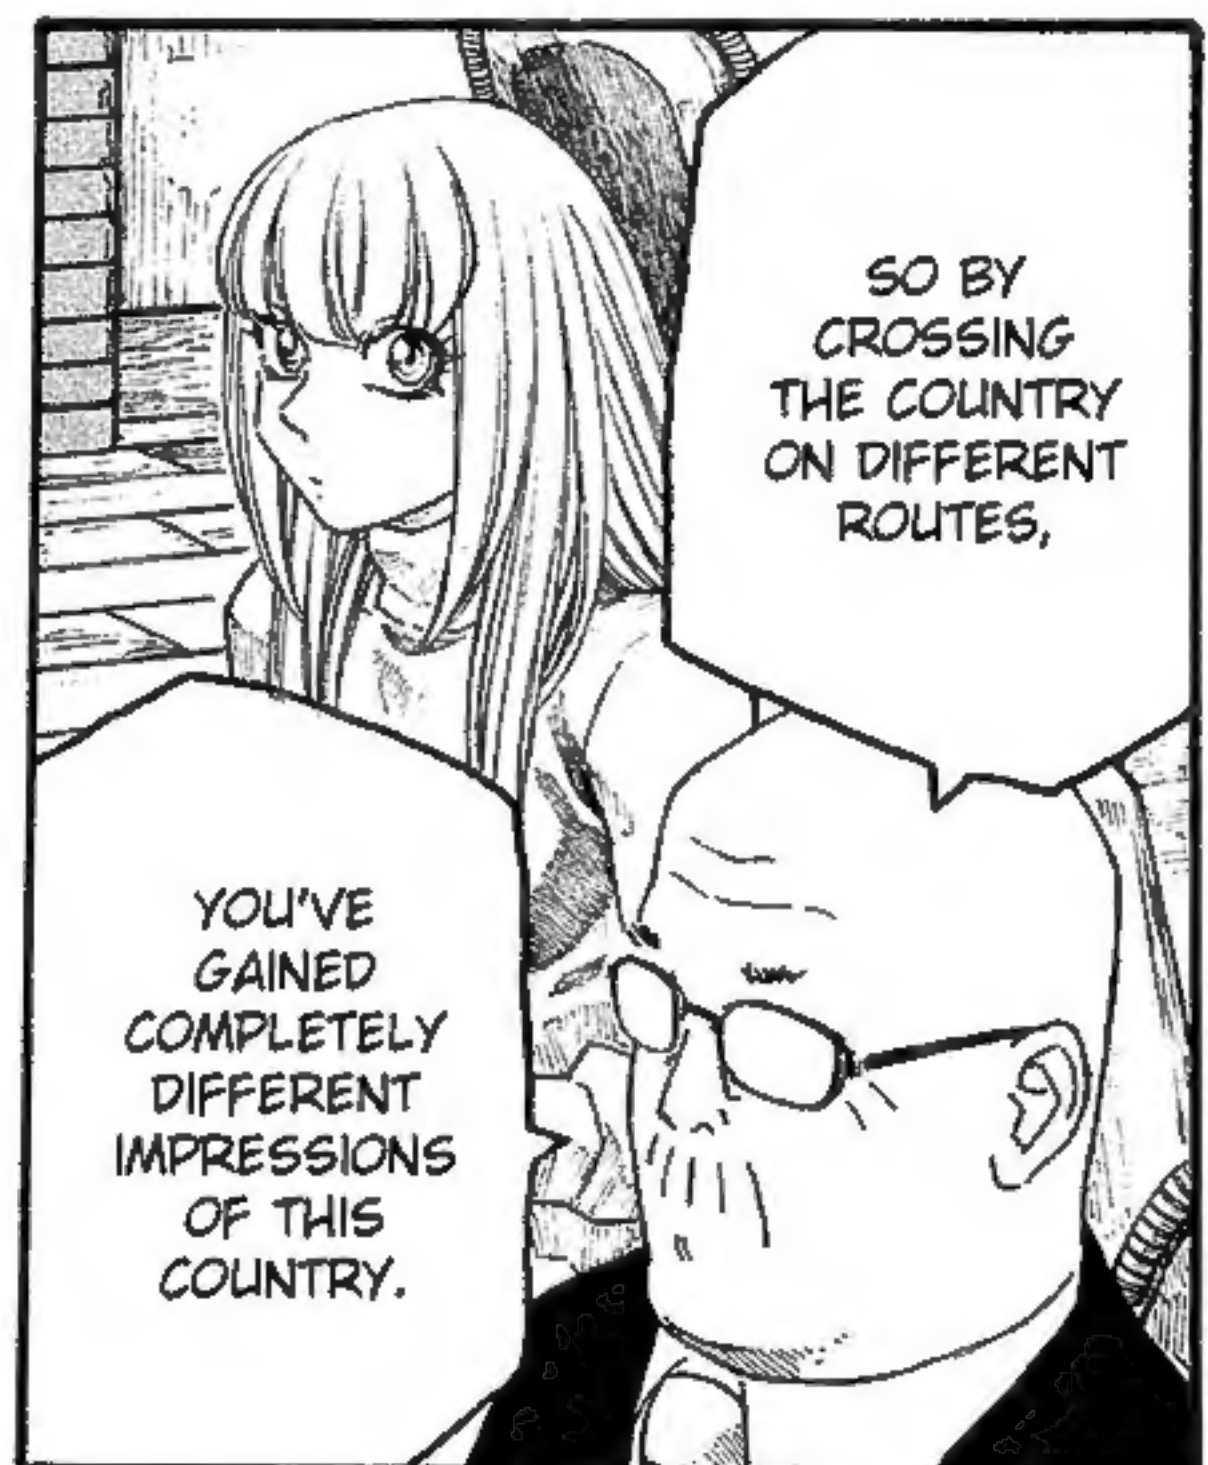

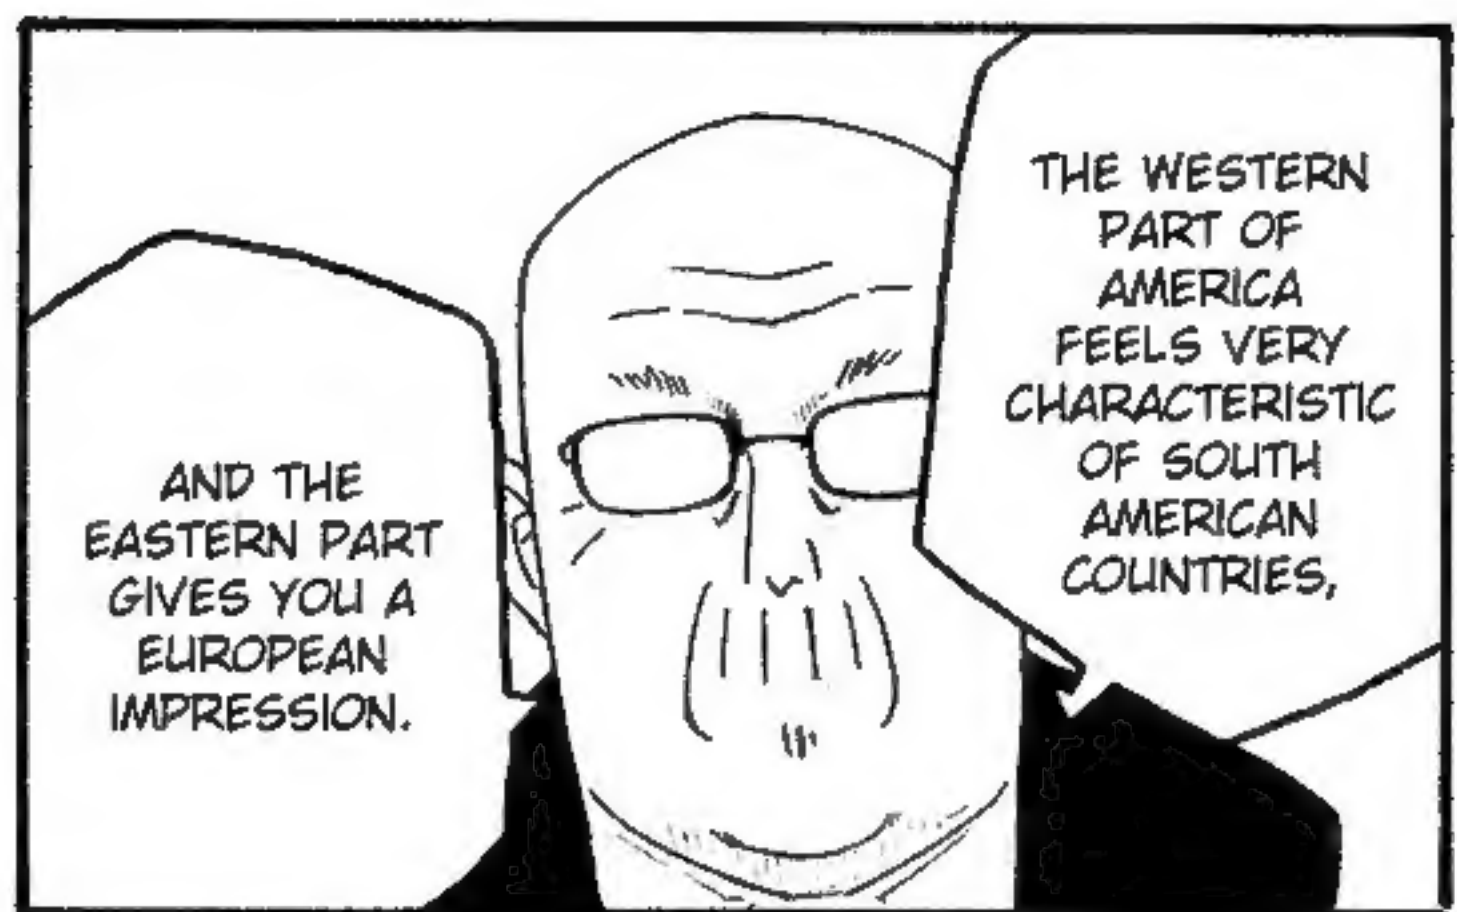

I SEE. THIS REALLY IS QUITE INTERESTING.

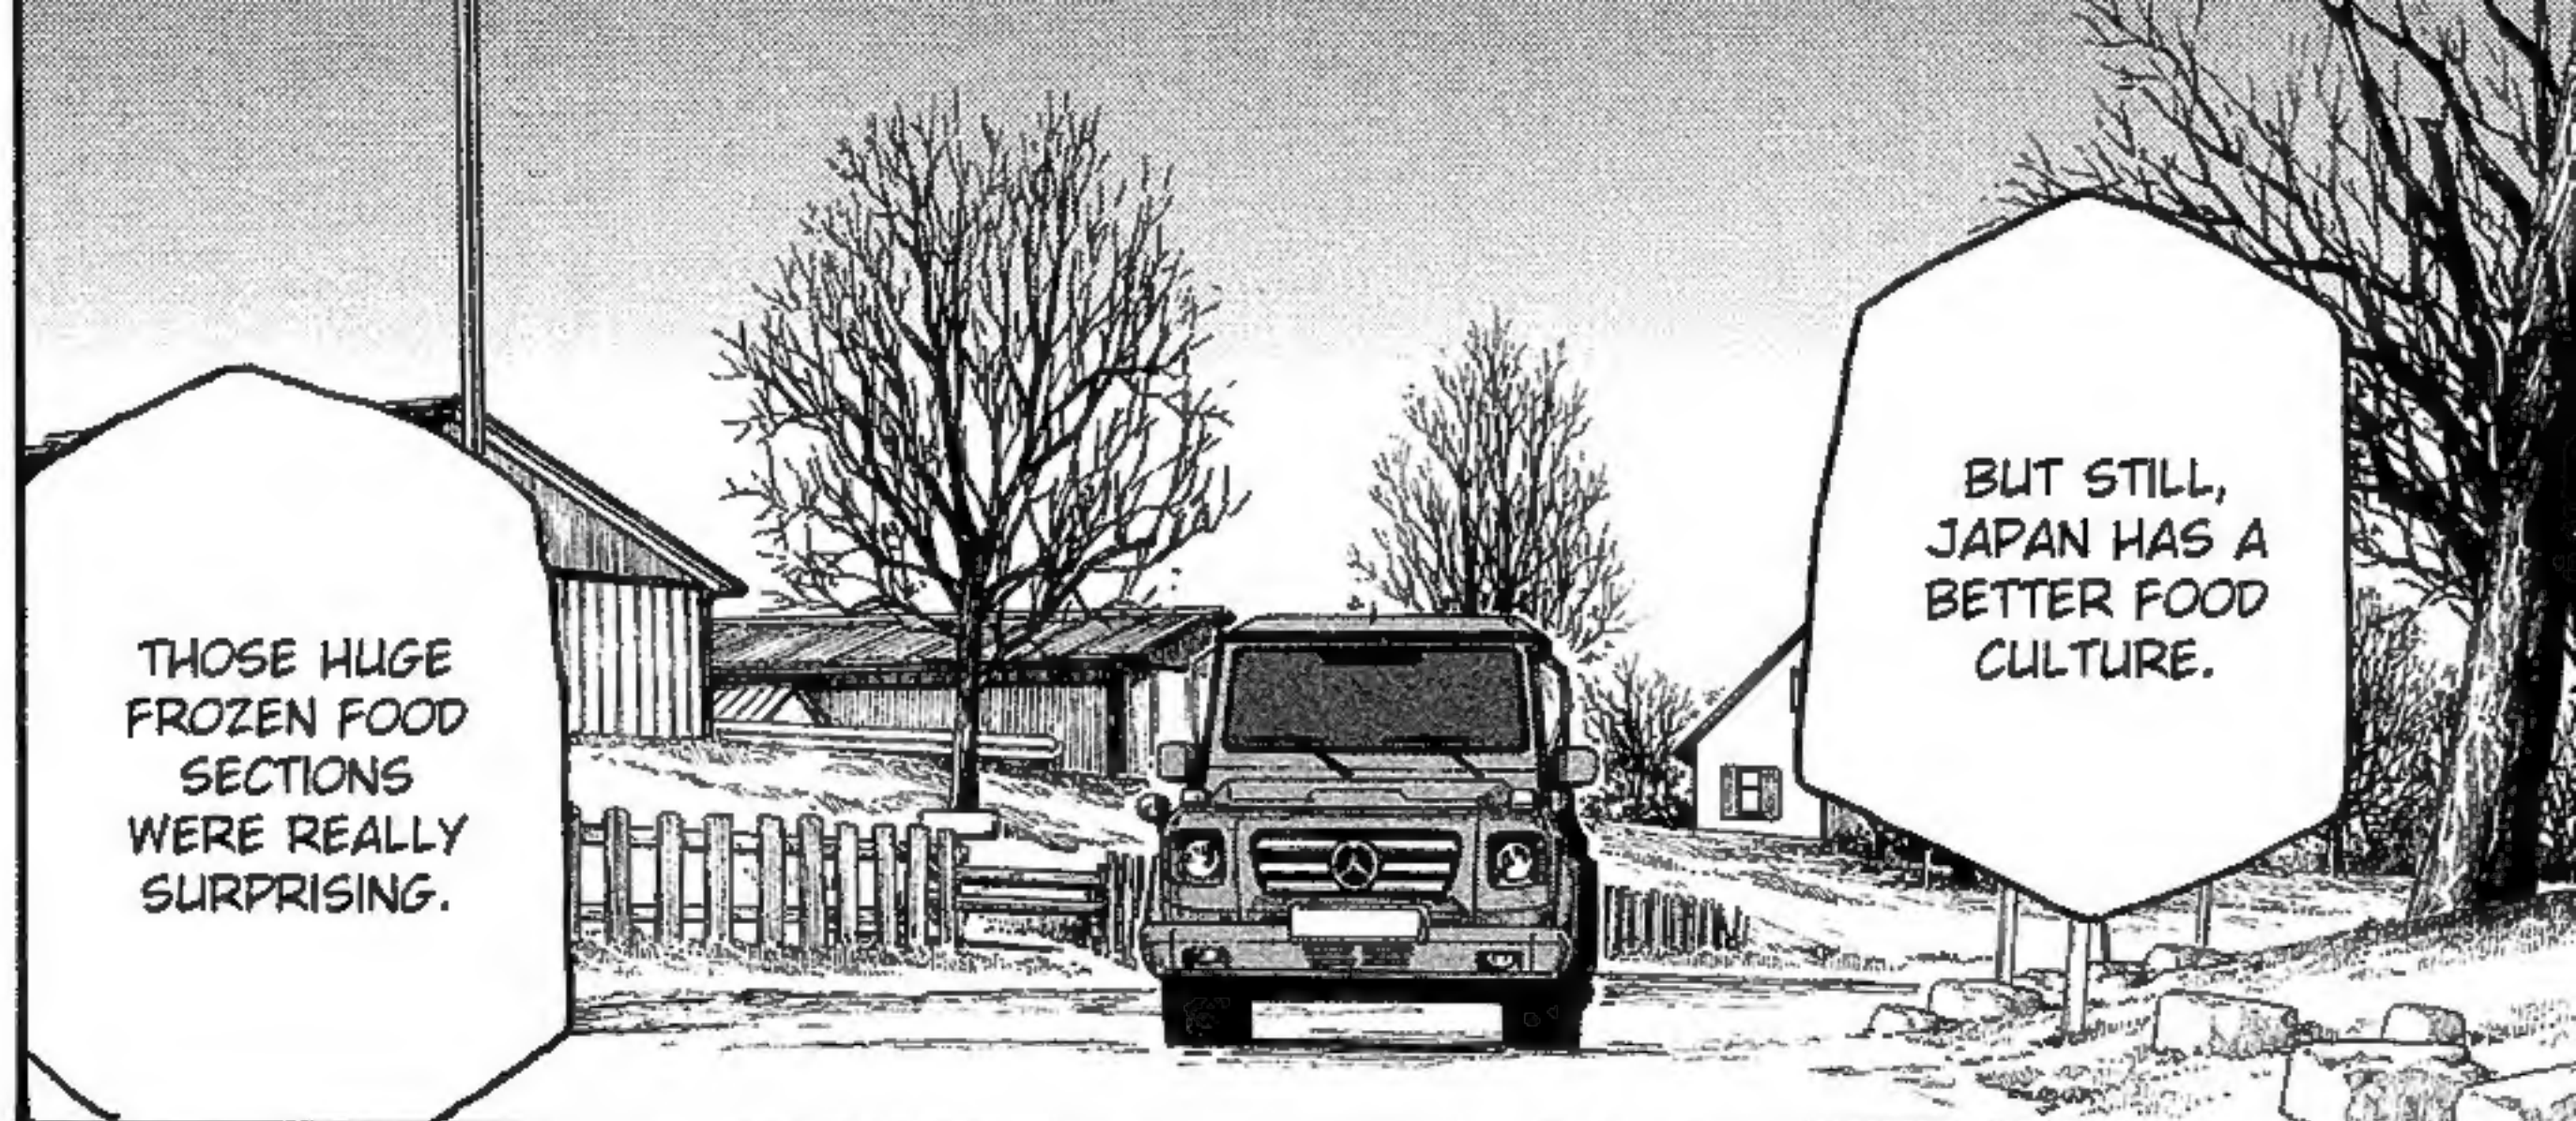

ARE YOU KIDDING ME!? WAS IT ANY GOOD!?

Keh!

SEA-FOOD !?

THERE WAS ALSO A LOT OF SEAFOOD IN SAN FRANCISCO.

THOSE HUGE FROZEN FOOD SECTIONS WERE REALLY SURPRISING.

BUT STILL,
JAPAN HAS A BETTER FOOD CULTURE.

BUT ISN'T JAPAN THE SAME WAY?

I HAVEN'T SEEN IT MYSELF...

JAPANESE SUPERMARKETS HAVE QUITE A LOT OF SPACE DEDICATED TO FROZEN AND PRE-PACKAGED FOODS.

HUH!?

YEAH, I CAN'T AGREE WITH NOT ENJOYING THE TIME IT TAKES TO COOK SOMETHING.

I UNDERSTAND THE NEED TO HAVE CHOICES,
BUT IT'S KINDA SAD THAT WAY.

AND AS FOR TEA, INSTEAD OF BREWING IT IN A TEAPOT, PEOPLE
JUST PUT A PLASTIC BOTTLE OF TEA RIGHT ON THE TABLE.

EVEN ON THE JAPANESE DINNER
TABLE, I'VE HEARD THAT THE NUMBER OF FAMILIES THAT DON'T MAKE MISO SOUP IS INCREASING.

Professor Itsuki, that's it for your role this chapter:

WE'RE OFF TO NEW ORLEANS!

BUT STILL, I CAN'T SAY SEEING YOU DRESSED
LIKE THAT FEELS OUT OF PLACE
AT THIS POINT, YUUKI-KUN.

HEY! YOU'RE ACTING WEIRD, YUUKI! WHAT ABOUT WHAT YOU SAID EARLIER!?

DON'T TAKE YOUR HANDS OFF THE WHEEL, KEI!

WE WON'T BE IN NEW ORLEANS
UNTIL TOMORROW MORNING, YOU TWO, SO JUST CALM DOWN!

Kei Yuuki
A boy meets a girl.

The next day

Stab

Marie
A girl meets a boy.

WELL THEN,

Pfff...

HE SAID HE'D GET HERE IN THE AFTERNOON.

I WONDER HOW HE'S CHANGED.

It's finally time.

Hachimitsu Scans
~sweeter than honey~

hachimitsu-scans.blogspot.com